PAIN-KILLER, been to fore the public over THIRTY YEARS d probably has a wider and better reputation n any other prepriscary medicine of the present day. At this period there are but few ansequalated with the merits of the PAIN KILLER; but, while some extel it as a lin ment, hey know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally; while others use it inernally with great success, but are equally igcrant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to ail, that t is equally successful, whether used internally irtnes as a standard medicine to know that it
